

HAA Undergrad Bi-Weekly Update

Welcome

Please note that Marcus will be unavailable for advising between Wednesday, February 22nd, and Tuesday, February 28th. If your question or request is not urgent, please email him and he will respond as soon as possible on return. If urgent, please reach out to the DUS, Professor Patricio del Real.

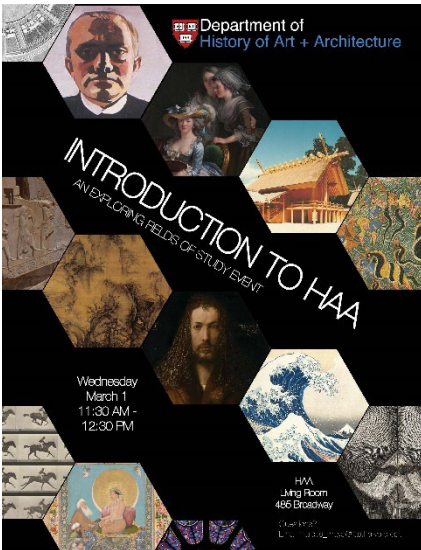

A reminder that we have two department events coming up.

For those who have yet to declare a concentration, we will be hosting an informal “meet and greet” event on Wednesday, March 1st, between 11:30 AM and 12:30 PM. Please stop by to meet HAA faculty, staff, and students. Snacks and refreshments will be served! We hope to see you there!

For rising seniors: we will be hosting a virtual “Introduction to the Senior Thesis” meeting on Friday, March 3rd, between 11 AM and 12 PM. If you’re considering undertaking an honors project next year, this meeting is required. Details are below.

HAA Alumni Focus

Since graduating, Brandon Presser, HAA Class of '05, has worked in the Louvre, in Tokyo as an architectural apprentice, and in Thailand as a scuba diving professional. From there, he became the youngest person to join the writing team at Lonely Planet, and has since written over 50 travel publications. He has written for multiple publications including Bloomberg, Harper's Bazaar, Conde Nast Traveler, and Town & Country.

His latest book out from Hachette entitled THE FAR LAND: 200 Years of Murder, Mania & Mutiny in the South Pacific, follows a band of fugitives - the mutineers of the HMAV Bounty - and their seventh-generation descendants who, today, live disconnected from the rest of the planet on a remote island. It has received rave reviews from numerous outlets including the New York Times Book Review, which called it "a mash-up of an 18th-century adventure novel and the darkest episode of 'Law & Order: Special Victims Unit' imaginable."

HUAHS

The Harvard Undergraduate Art History Society invites you to a free tour of the Harvard Art Museums on Saturday, February 25th at 12pm! We will follow our Board Member and Student Guide Arielle Frommer through the Museums on her tour entitled "Out of This World." We will meet at the Student Entrance. We hope to see you there!
